SALON CULINAIRE MONDIAL 2013

November 27, 2013

Salon Culinaire Mondial 2013 Nov 23-27, Basel, Switzerland

The Salon Culinaire Mondial showcases culinary art at the very highest level: this prestigious event, which is only staged every six years, is one of the three most important international team cooking competitions, alongside the Culinary Olympics and the Culinary World Cup. Ten of the world's best national teams were invited to compete for the title of 'Culinary World Master'

At the renowned Salon Culinaire Mondial team-cooking competition, ten national teams with more than 60 members, competed virtually round-the-clock for medals and titles in the categories of "Culinary Art" and "Pastry Art" as well as in the hot show kitchen. It frequently happened that the chefs were on their feet for more than 30 hours at a time in a bid to provide visitors to the fair and the 22-strong jury with a show of superlatives – something which they certainly succeeded in doing.

Even before the competition started, it was clear that the race for the podium positions would be a very close one. The jury thus had its work cut out accordingly. The jury rewarded the performance of the Culinary National Team of Hong Kong with two gold medals and as the overall winner – the "Culinary World Master". The national team from Switzerland came second, while third place went to Team Singapore.
